Metal packaging manufacturers association

The manufacturer can combine operations with the Metal Packaging Manufacturers Association. The board will continue to operate under mpe's parent organization as part of the merger, the beverage manufacturer can join forces with the rest of the metal packaging industry. The manufacturer can continue to represent metal beverage packaging manufacturers within the association, MPMA CEO William Boyd said: This merger is good news for the metal packaging industry and our members will be able to coordinate and share our resources to promote the metal as the most sustainable pack model. In 2019, the merger will see operations unchanged externally, but will focus on the process of improving and establishing communication between the industry and key stakeholders. The newly formed Board will focus on greater sustainability in the activities of the industry. We can provide a stronger voice for our members and show why Cans is a sustainable option. The chairman of the Can producers committee, Marcel Arsand, said: Drinks can be the most recycled beverage container in the world and provide a good foundation to achieve a renewable economy. By working closely with the wider metal packaging industry, we can provide a stronger voice for our members and show why Cans is a sustainable option for beverage manufacturers, retailers and consumers more efficiently. The Board of Directors can and members will focus on building positive relationships between the industry and customers.
